

16th Financial Reporting Workshop

Verona – June 18-19, 2026

General Information

Conference location: University Pole Santa Marta

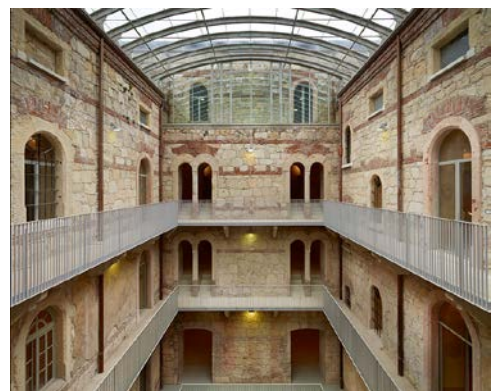

Apart from the social dinner, all other workshop activities will be held in the University of Verona, Via Cantarane, 24, Verona (Italy), in the Santa Marta Building and the Silos Ponente Building.

Built between 1863 and 1865, the Santa Marta and Silos Ponente buildings are located within a complex of military-related infrastructure, originally used for the production and storage of bread, grain and other troop rations. It was one of the most impressive logistics plants in the Austrian stronghold in Verona, Italy's most important military city, and one of the most significant in Europe. After annexation to the Kingdom of Italy, the plant remained in use for over a century, with a variety of new functions, until the 1990s.

After a recent renovation by Verona University, the Santa Marta complex is now the site for its Management, Economics and Law Departments, as well as housing the Economics Library. The work of architectural restoration involved careful qualitative research and the use of innovative technologies. One example is the state-of-the-art geothermal plant for renewable energy. The renovation work was awarded the Gold Medal for Italian Architecture at the Milan Triennale in 2015.

A permanent exhibition in the former bakery covers the history of the Building and its relations with the city, with a further dimension on how soldiers were fed.
